Profile

I am a recent graduate of the University of Southern California where I received a B.A. in International Relations with a minor in Cinema-Television. I was one of 37 students to graduate with Honors in Multimedia Scholarship from the Institute for Multimedia Literacy. At USC I founded a chapter of Students for Free Culture, an international student movement focused on reducing the constraints on sharing media amongst and within academic and cultural institutions. For the past 12 months I have worked as an intern and subsequently part-time at Creative Commons, a San Francisco based non-profit that deals with alternative approaches to copyright. I am an accomplished musician, follow world and national events closely, and have been told I am articulate, funny, and good with people. I like strong coffee and dream of one day dunking a basketball.
